By car from the A7 freeway

- By car you reach Göttingen on the A7, exit "Göttingen Nord".
- Then direction Göttingen-Weende/Braunlage until the end of the feeder road/intersection B27 - Hannoversche Straße.
- Continue straight ahead on the B27 in the direction of Braunlage.
- After approx. 300 meters turn right - direction "Psychiatrische Klinik" onto Robert-Koch-Straße.
- At the traffic light follow the signs to the left, get into the left lane and then turn into Von-Siebold-Straße.
- The building is the second on the left.
- Stop at the barrier, use the call system and identify yourself as a guest of the DZNE. The barrier will then be opened.

By Public Transport

- Göttingen has an ICE train station and is well connected to the long-distance rail services.
- The central bus station (ZOB) is located directly in front of the station (exit in the direction of the city center).
- The bus lines 21, 22, 23, 33, 41 and 42 lead to the bus stop "Beyerstraße".
- They arrive every 15 or 30 minutes, during the school holidays every 30 or 60 minutes.
- The "Beyerstraße" stop is located in Parallelstraße below the building at Von-Siebold-Str. 3a.
  (For the exact departure times, please refer to the timetable of the Göttinger Verkehrsbetriebe.)
- Von-Siebold-Straße can then be reached comfortably on foot in 3 minutes.
- Walk back 50 m from the stop and then turn left into the street Kreuzbergring, which you follow for approx. 300 m and then turn left into Von-Siebold-Straße.

By Plane

- The nearest airport is Hanover (HAJ). From there you can take a regular ICE train to Göttingen (approx. 1 hour travel time).
- From the airport Frankfurt/Main (FRA) train connections are also close (approx. 2 hrs. travel time).
